ABOUT ME

A storyteller at heart with an instinct for detail — I notice what most people walk past, and I know how to turn a small idea into something people actually remember. Most at home in a room full of new people, big personalities, and last-minute logistics, I move fluidly between strategy, execution, negotiation, and brand experience. Travel and Food are more than interests; they're where I go to study how the best moments are built. Organised enough to run the night, curious enough to still be delighted by it...
